'54 "Calendar Girls" Raise $1,200 for QA Scholarships

2006 Calendar On the Way! By Kerry McMahan '54

Following the lead of the British ladies' club charity fundraiser documented in the movie "Calendar Girls", some of the ladies of the Class of '54 produced and sold a successful 2005 scholarship fundraising calendar starring 11 Grizzly ladies, one husband and a grizzly bear. These fearless classmates, tastefully and all in fun, exposed themselves, along with carefully selected props, to raise money for the new Class of 1954 Scholarship, to be awarded annually by the Queen Anne High School Alumni Association.

The goal was to sell the calendars at the 50th reunion last August, but once the word leaked out about their project, orders poured in and almost all of them were sold before they were published. Additional copies were printed, but the demand outstripped the revised supply.

Interestingly enough, the reunion committee is continually receiving requests from classmates who want to appear in future years' calendars.

Class of 1954's "Calendar Girls" 2005 calendar, produced to raise money for QAHSAA scholarships.

See You There! Summer Picnic Aug. 21

All QA alums are invited to attend the annual summer picnic, Sunday, Aug. 21, at Magnolia Park from 11:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. The QAHSAA will provide hot dogs and sodas. The QAHS Korean War Veterans Group will be grilling burgers with "Al's Hamburgers" grill. A large turnout is expected as four classes are hosting reunions at the picnic!

That's right! Succeeding calendars! This novel idea seems destined for perpetuity, with leadership roles by Pat (Purcell) Turnbull, Linda (Fouts) McCullough and Pat's son Patrick, a top-notch graphic artist who donated significant time and loaned personal funds to jump start this "blockbuster" fundraiser effort.

Planning is underway for the 2006 calendar and orders are being accepted now. If you are interested in purchasing one of these collector's items, phone Pat at (206) 325-1685 or Linda (425) 743-9510. Just imagine the scholarship dollar potential if all classes produced and sold their own class calendars! Let's all have some fun and raise more tax deductible contribution funds for the QAHSAA Scholarship Fund.

From Our QAHSAA President

Volunteers are what keep every organization going. The QA Alumni Association is run completely by volunteers, with no person paid for their efforts to keep the Grizzly spirit alive. This covers board members, people who make the scholarship program go, people who sit at the alumni table at the Magnolia Festival or sell logo merchandise at various reunions or set up the picnic. Not to mention the KUAY! It's all just folks like yourself. If you would like to share your high school experiences with others and join the camaraderie of Grizzly fellowship, then volunteer to join a group or to help out at an event. Interested or just have some questions? Give me a call at (206) 567-4180 or e-mail me: info@qagrizzlies.org.

This year's annual Summer Festival on the Magnolia Playfield is scheduled for Aug. 5-6. Those living in the Seattle area will get this notice just in time to drop by and visit the QA Alumni booth at the festival and to take part in the annual parade through the Village. The festival runs 11 am – 7 pm on Friday and 10 am – 6 pm on Saturday. The parade is Saturday 10:30 am and a contingent of Grizzlies will be marching with our banner. Meet in front of Catharine Blaine School at 34th Ave. W. and W. Raye St. Come join in and give a cheer for ol' Queen Anne High! Thanks as always to Bob Thelen '78 who will again be chairing the parade.

In Grizzly Fellowship, Barb

Miss Ethel Smith, who taught at QAHS 1954-1976 celebrated her 90th birthday June 13. Alumni & faculty joined together to celebrate with her.

Kathryn (Goodwin) Barnes '21 and Alice (Whalley) Holcomb '21 celebrated their 101st birthdays earlier this year. Alice turned 101 in March, and Kathryn Kathryn (Goodwin) Barnes '21, age 100.

"Kay" on the July 6. Alice bought a new bathing suit for her trip to San Diego in June. Congratulations, ladies!

Donald H. Dawson '28 sends thanks for The KUAY, although most of the names are unknown to him. He and his wife, Eleanor, recently celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary. They were married in Don's parents' home on Queen Anne Hill, by the Reverend Dr. Mark Matthews of the First Presbyterian Church. Today the couple reside in Redmond, Washington. Don would like to hear from any other members of the Class of 1928 (as would we all!).

Robert E. "Bob" Galer '31, one of the great "Warren Kids," was written up in the July 1, 2005 Seattle Times. He died in Dallas, Texas, aged 91. The article covers more of his service career than the other portions of his life, but it does remind us

If you correspond with any foreign Grizzlies, please give them the web address: www.qagrizzlies.org again of that intrepid group of Grizzlies who fought for freedom, and some of whom continue to fight for freedom in faraway places.

Frances Farris '35, reminds us that the Class of 1935 will hold its 70th reunion at the August picnic.

1940s

Paul Mason '40, and his wife Pauline celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary on Memorial Day. The couple live in Mukilteo.

Mary Caroline (Luther) Pruefer '40, daughter of Otto L. Luther, has died at her home in Fairfax, VA. Her father was Queen Anne's first principal, from 1909-1951. Roger Luther, brother to Mary Carolyn, lives in Hawaii.

Jack Ferluga '44, was paired with Bob Jorgensen, of Roosevelt HS, in an article about the great city championship playoff for the baseball title. Jorgensen pitched a no-hitter to defeat Ferluga and the Grizzlies at Howe Field. Ferluga also pitched a no-hitter. Queen Anne had beaten Roosevelt the day before to tie the records, and the playoff was held to break that tie. Jorgensen made the only run of the game in the fifth inning an error. There is a good article about the game in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer for April 20, 2005.

Neal Vonada '45, sends memories of Benno J. Uhl and the German Club, regretting that he had not paid more attention to Mr. Uhl's lessons, as it would have made an incident in Panama during World War II of more interest. He walked past a group of about 35 German submarine crew members who were POWs there, and he didn't speak a word of German.

Doug Hutchinson '48 remembers Helen Hicks, English teacher extraordinaire at Queen Anne. He refers to her in his letter to us that she was "the most feared English teacher at QA." She was tough, but she was a superb teacher. Thanks to her, freshman English at UW was a breeze. Her teaching also made college Spanish classes infinitely easier.

William J. "Joe" Daniels '52, celebrated his 71st birthday last January in Antarctica, viewing penguins at Hope Bay & at Paradise Harbor. Daniels lives in Pineville, LA. He and his wife and daughter took the trip, which involved flying from Dallas to Buenos Aires, then to Ushuaia, the southernmost city in the world. From there they took ship to Antarctica.

Lynda (Poeppel) Conway '59, sends word from her home in Las Vegas. She is involved in two businesses which keep her busy. Her father, Robert "Bob" Poeppel retired recently at the age of 91. He built the first prototype of Medic One, working with Dr. Mike Copass '56, on the project. The Seattle Fire Department gave Poeppel a great send-off at his retirement. The Poeppels still live at the family home on Magnolia.

Kim R. Turner '61, recently toured historic sites and viewed rare historical documents dealing with the American Revolution, in Philadelphia and York, Pennsylvania, and through several stops in Delaware. This was for the annual meeting of the Manuscript Society, and was an historical eye-opener to one whose recognition of history is more the Pacific Northwest and less the rest of the country. The security to see the Liberty bell and State House in Philadelphia are more stringent than at the airports. Weather cooperated most of the trip, and seeing the great treasures and great homes, including those of the DuPont family, made for a memorable trip. Nearly 24 pages of journal text grew as Turner moved from one venue to the next, viewing (and in some cases, holding) letters written by George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr!

Nancy (Ferris) Terry '62 writes that she and her husband, Mike, are proud grandparents for the first time. Granddaughter Hannah Rose Terry on February 27, 2005. Both parents and grandparents are doing well.

1970s

John Marshall '70, has written a new book of poems, "Taken With" -- the subject is the decline in health and death of his mother, Eleanor Wallace Marshall, who lived on the north slope of Queen Anne Hill. Marshall and his wife, Christine Deavel, operate the Open Books bookstore in Wallingford, which is the one poetry-only bookstore this side of Boston. Marshall was up for the Washington State Book Awards in 2001, for his book, "Blue Mouth."

Kirk Fechter '71 lives in Washington, D.C. and would like to contact members of his class. He is also interested in the annual get-togethers of the alumni.

Kathy (Mills) Rogers '71 tells of coincidences in her life. Two strangers from Magnolia, both Grizzly alums, were sharing a table in a Port Orchard school lunchroom quite a few years ago when "small talk" between them revealed that they both graduated from QAHS & both grew up on Magnolia. Rogers was an education aide and Brian Pickard '76, was vice principal of the Orchard Heights Elementary School. Add to that: Rogers' aunt and uncle lived next door to the Pickard family when Brian was born. Pickard has worked in the South Kitsap School District for 17 years, four at Orchard Heights and 13 as principal of South Colby Elementary. He is currently past president of the Elementary School Principal Association of Washington (ESPAW). His wife Molly is a preschool special ed teacher and they have two children. When Rogers retired about two years ago she became a school bus driver in the South Kitsap district. When she delivers kids to South Colby Elementary each morning she sees Principal Pickard out by the bus zone greeting the kids. Rogers is married to Craig, a captain in the Bremerton Police Department. They have three grown children and grandchildren.

Grads & Teachers Attend Annual '05 Spring Luncheon

Once again hosted by Connie (Haas) Morrison '81 and Ed Bol '81, the annual Spring Luncheon attracted more than 60 grads, teachers and spouses. As always, a good time was had by all.

The teachers in attendance were Carl "Chief" Fulkerson and his lovely wife Lorraine, John Doty and Ethyl Smith. Attendees spanned 60 years of graduating classes from oldest Alice Whalley Holcomb '21 to youngest Connie (Haas) Morrison '81. Over $200 was raised in raffle money, which is all donated to the QAHSAA Scholarship Fund.

Thanks to those who donated the fabulous raffle baskets and congratulations to those who won. We also wish to thank the Yankee Grill for their continuous hospitality and a special "Thank You" to Cosmo the bartender, we like him a lot.

We look forward to seeing all the regular grads next spring and hope to see some new faces.

Erwin Henkel Shaped QA Boys for 38 Years

Here are some of their stories:

By John Hennes '51

"Spend your money and sleep in the streets!" Mr. Henkel's favorite economic advice to Queen Anne boys signing up for gym baskets. Variations included, "Spend your money so Harry (Truman) doesn't get it," or "Spend your money and keep Governor (Langlie) in office." Family advice included, "Boys, don't get married. Marriage will give you a bad back." These quotes from Daniel Ursic '67, Dick Bringloe '56, Nil Molvik '51 and Peter Freeman '65, are a few of the responses we received from our August 2004 story on Coach Erv Henkel. Every boy who attended Queen Anne from 1926 until 1964 has a Henkel story.

But who was he?

Erwin Henkel was born Jan. 20, 1902 in Waunauke, Wisconsin, the child of Charles and Carolyn Henkel. He grew up there, but moved into town to go to Madison High School in Madison, Wisconsin, class of 1919. He eventually attended the University of Illinois and graduated in 1926 with a B.S. in Physical Education. While at Illinois he played on football teams with Red Grange and spent his summers playing semi-pro baseball in the Madison area. His college baseball coach was the well known Carl Lundgren.

Henkel, known as "Erv", arrived at Queen Anne High School in the fall of 1926. In the spring of 1927 he replaced Doug Kirk as baseball coach and continued in that role until 1938, except for 1936 when Lou Hull was baseball coach, before his leaving for Roosevelt. During Coach Henkel's time the Queen Anne baseball team went undefeated in 1934, the only time in Queen Anne's history, and won the city title. His players over the years included Edo Vanni, John Cherberg, Reno Denini, Mike Budnick, John and Felix Penso, Bob Hornig, Carl Carulli, Joe McNamee, Bob Stagg and many others. In 1939 John Cherberg took over the baseball team and Coach Henkel "retired" to teach gym and coach intramurals. He retired from teaching in 1964.

Henkel and his wife Cora lived at 15 W. Smith St. for over 30 years, where they raised their two children, Harold '51 and Janet Gaul '53. They spent their summers at a cabin on Vashon Island. Following his wife's death Mr. Henkel lived alone for a time on Vashon, but spent his final years at Queen Anne Manor at First Ave N. and Crockett St. (the former Children's Orthopedic Hospital). He died of a heart attack May 10, 1988 at age 86.

Beyond the biography lies the real Erv Henkel. A huge and intimidating, 6 ft-4 inch man with a booming voice that filled the halls of Queen Anne without his trying, Henkel was a pivotal figure in the life of every boy at Queen Anne. A farm boy from turn-of-the-century Wisconsin, he lived a simple life, expected every student to do their best and tolerated no phoniness.

Dick Tenney '39 remembers, "At the beginning of my second year at Queen Anne, I was studying away in study hall. Henkel, in suit and tie, was going up and down the rows signing people up for gym classes. When he got to me he asked what gym class I wanted to sign up for. Knowing little else, and having taken it the year before, I said, ‘General Gym.’ Henkel rose to his full 6 ft-4 inches and in a voice that could be heard down on Queen Anne Avenue, roared ‘General Gym!!!’ Being unable to sink through the floor, I instantly understood that he did not think I should take General Gym again. In zero time I signed up for wrestling. He was a fine wrestling coach, too. Henkel was one of my favorite teachers at Queen Anne—intimidating, to say the least, at first, but a fine and understanding coach in the long run. I loved to watch his baseball teams, both in practice and in games. He really pushed his players to get the best from them.”

had an Olympic Gold Medal in the Straight-Faced Leg-Pull, he never mentioned it...but that's Henk for you. Because of his gruffness I didn't like him AT ALL at first, in 8th grade or for some time after. But, at the Open House in (I think) my sophomore year, my mother wanted to make the detour WAAAAAAY down to the gym to see him too. He explained to her that Gym was hard for me because (as my classmates will recall) I wasn't exactly the biggest, strongest kid in class. He didn't seem to hold that against me, in fact we three sat in his office a long time that evening while he showed a quiet, thoughtful, sympathetic side of himself, which I'd have never figured he had. While I still don't figure every gruff exterior conceals a heart of gold, he taught me that at least a few do. “Much later, at our 30th Class Reunion we urged him to get up and ‘Say A Few Words’. He did, giving us a long Current Events Harangue, just like he sometimes did in Gym Class. It must've seemed boring and pointless to the women, but us guys had us a great wallow in nostalgia, feeling like we were back in Henkel's Gym.”

Norm Engstrom '43 writes, “One morning we were lined up in the gym, roll call, I guess. Henkel was standing in front of us tossing a softball up and down. The two boys next to me were talking, not paying any attention to Coach Henkel. I turned my head to see what they were doing and—Bang—Henkel's softball, which he threw at them, hit me in the side. I picked up the ball and said, ‘Darn you, Henkel, that hurt.’ Walking towards him like I was going to throw the ball at him, he put up his arms, waving them in front of his face, saying, ‘The innocent have to suffer with the wicked, the innocent have to suffer with the wicked.’ I threw the ball down and got back in line. After that we became good friends.”

Author's Note: Erwin Henkel's influence at Queen Anne has generated many more stories than we have space for at this time. Additional stories and a wrap-up will be carried over to the February 2006 issue.

Donald S. Williams '62 learned a lesson from Henk: “I was in Coach Henkel's PE class in the 7th grade (1957) and my parents had sent a note to keep me out of PE for a day due to having a cold. But Mr. Henkel didn't agree. Although I didn't suit up for PE that day, Mr. Henkel found something else for me to do. It seems that he had a set of hockey tickets waiting at will-call at the old Ice Arena on Mercer St., and that's where he sent me. PE lasted only one hour and it was a long hike down the hill to the Ice Arena, but I followed his orders and set off. When I arrived at the Ice Arena the ticket sales people had never heard of Mr. Henkel and had no tickets for him. I faithfully hiked back up the hill, made it to the gym just within the one hour limit and reported the situation to Mr. Henkel. It turns out that Mr. Henkel never had any tickets on order. He just wanted to make the point that no one should get away with not attending his PE class. I learned a good lesson that day: ask questions before taking orders!!!” Other lessons in life from Henk include, “Five minutes of pleasure...nine months of pain and sorrow...is it worth it boys?”

Gary Christopher '67 sent this in and noted, “The first few times we heard this we didn't know what he was talking about. It was only after we boys conversed with each other that we figured it out.” Christopher had a not atypical introduction to the legendary gym teacher in 1961; he continues, “The first time I encountered Henkel was during my first week in the 7th grade. This was when the boy's gym was in the east side of the main building, in the basement. I was getting ready for PE and this very large man came into the aisle of lockers where I was changing, grabbed me by my tee-shirt, lifted me off my feet, banged me against the locker, and started yelling at me for something. Then he looked at me and said ‘Oh ... you're not the right kid’ and let me go. He went to the next aisle, found the boy he was looking for and proceeded to scare the living daylight out of that kid! He had already done that to me, and I wasn't even the one in trouble!”

Dick Bringloe '56 wrote, “Miss Ogrosky enjoyed telling of her recognizing his (Henkel's) last name as German and asking him his first name—which, with tongue in cheek, he said was Fritz. She said she'd thought it was that, for years. Odd that if he

Class of '54's Reunion a Blast By Storm Jobs Yanicks '54

The class of 1954 held its 50th reunion August 27-29, 2004. The three-day event started with a tour of the high school on Friday afternoon and continued at what is now the former Hoyt's Pub that evening. Our gathering there was one of the last before Hoyt's closed due to new construction planned for the site. A tradition ended; we met there at the beginning of two previous reunion weekends also.

Committee members were chairman Dee Hawkes, Shelby Anderson Argens, Jana Bardsley Baker, Jo Nommensen Bellows, Judy Rogers Dearden, Jack and Evie Reiman Drexel, Loretta Hoyt Garrett, Joy Vanasse Goodenough, Martha Lorraine Elliot Kippola, Sheila Thaden Lind, Linda Fouts McCullough, Kerry McMahan, Katie Babunes O'Neil, Michael Tauber, Pat Purcell Turnbull and Storm Jobs Yanicks.

We located all but 27 of our original 275 classmates. 150 people came to the reunion dinner held Saturday evening at Sand Point Country Club, including three teachers, Walt Milroy, Jay Taylor and Sylvia Weinstein Paul. Among those who came from quite a distance were Bill Hartley from Hong Kong, John Simpson from Ontario and Malcolm Swanson from New Hampshire.

During the program, Carrol Sutton Read danced the hula, as she had predicted she would do in our 1954 annual, and taught us how to do the hand motions for "Three Blind Mice." Fifty years after they last appeared in the yell squad at the 1953 Thanksgiving Day vs. Olympia football game, Allan White and Kerry led us in a cheer and in singing the fight song.

Sunday morning we gathered at the Drexels' home for an all-class brunch, our final event. We had a great time and hated to say goodbye, the sign of a good party!

Third Year QAHSAA Awards 30 New Scholarships

By Kerry McMahan '54

Our 23rd annual scholarship competition again resulted in 30 scholarship awards, made possible by the exceptional generosity of classes, reunion groups, individual donations and the collective donations of many Queen Anne alumni. This year, 101 application forms were requested, and 68 correctly completed applications were received by the March 31 deadline. This year, 28 scholarships were awarded to high school seniors and 2 to university students. Named scholarships are mentioned in the winners' paragraphs that follow. Unnamed scholarships are given from the Queen Anne High School Alumni Association Scholarship Fund.

Carole Baumgartner – Valedictorian, graduated first in her class of 563 from Inglemoor HS, with a 4.0 GPA and was awarded early acceptance into the UW business school. Her school activities include four years varsity swimming, serving two years as captain and three years varsity basketball, where she was captain her senior year. She is the daughter of Steve and Jane (Northey) Baumgartner, both QA '74.

Jesse Baumgartner – Valedictorian, graduated first in his class of 406 from Garfield HS, and enrolled at the U. of North Carolina. He is interested in a career in medicine and will study biology. Remembering One of the Best

QAHS's Miss Tormey

By Ada Lou (Williams) Ross '49

Gertrude Tormey was one of the three best teachers I ever had in school. The others were Florence Ludlow who taught 4th grade at F.H. Coe School, and Giovanni Costigan, professor of history at the University of Washington.

Miss Tormey was a tall, almost statuesque woman. She had lovely, large brown eyes, brown and gray hair which she wore swept back to reveal a face that radiated warmth and humor. Her classroom at Queen Anne was filled with senior students seated in double, old-fashioned, traditional wooden desks.

Our first assignment was to read Charles Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities." Under Miss Tormey's instruction, the entire story came to life. The excitement, mystery and drama of the French Revolution became vivid happenings to us. The great sacrifice made by Charles Darnay and the loathsome behavior of Madame La Farge as she methodically knit the names of guillotine victims into her work were actual, rather than imaginary happenings.

Gertrude Tormey in 1957.

Our second assignment for the semester was to study Shakespeare's "Hamlet". That was an unforgettable experience! We read the play aloud and Miss Tormey explained the meanings of unfamiliar terms and words, elaborated the bard's images and often portrayed the various roles herself. I think she must have been a repressed thespian at heart because she so readily transformed herself into the play's most noteworthy characters. I can remember her "sweeping" up to the front of our classroom from the back door as if she were Queen Gertrude entering a roomful of courtiers with Hamlet's evil uncle. She made us understand and feel Hamlet's soul-searching in his most famous soliloquies. We could appreciate his determination to "bear the ills (he) had" rather than "fly to others that (he) knew not of." When Ophelia was drowned, we felt Hamlet's sorrow. When Polonius lectured him, we could empathize with his impatience. When the gravedigger unearthed the skull of Yorick, we had, perhaps, our first thoughts of our own mortality.

One of the class requirements was to memorize (word, spelling and punctuation perfect) 100 lines from the play. I recall mastering that assignment during evenings when I was babysitting. It was a hard task then, but one that has blessed me ever since!

Fortunately for us, Laurence Olivier's film version of "Ham- let" came out that same year. Our entire class attended and it was a joy to be able to follow that landmark movie with understanding and appreciation!

After "Hamlet", we were given the choice of studying one of Shakespeare's other plays or another literary work such as a novel. We voted overwhelmingly for more Shakespeare! Thus our third assignment was "Macbeth". Miss Tormey's approach to this work was much the same. However, I believe she laid a stronger historical groundwork for us.

Once we were into the play, Macbeth's ambition and Lady Macbeth's madness captured our attention. Again, we were asked to memorize 100 lines ... and we did! And, once more, we were able to view the play on screen, only this time in Orson Welles' film version. As I recall, we felt Welles was more melodramatic than Olivier and that his film seemed to have been made someplace where everything, even the atmosphere, was dark and dank. But who could forget Welles' voice or the self-doubt that tormented Macbeth's soul?

I had at least one more occasion to hear Miss Tormey speak. She addressed a group of students at a college organization to which I belonged. She talked about her travel and teaching experiences in the Orient. I remember two ideas from that talk. She spoke about the Asian artist's love of placing the colors pink and bright orange next to each other. This, she explained, was because in both China and Japan, the natives are used to seeing pink cherry trees blooming next to red-orange temples every spring. Therefore, this color combination is very beautiful to them!

She also compared Chinese and Japanese cuisine. According to her, the Chinese are most interested in the taste of the dishes they prepare, while Japanese cooks try very hard to make their dishes look beautiful! Thus, the Japanese are apt to concentrate on "presentation" while the Chinese focus on flavor.

It's been well over 50 years since I actually heard Miss Tormey, but in my mind her rich, low voice and unassuming but impressive figure are very real. She was wonderful and her teaching has been a lifelong treasure for me!

Editor's Note: Gertrude Tormey taught at Queen Anne from 1928 to 1965 except for four years on leave.
