

Gerry Bradley '59 writes to all QAHS alums:

HAPPY NEW YEAR to all of you, which I extend through the month of January every year. The other is to make all of you aware of the PROGRESS that has come for both of my books. The first "Birds From the Thicket" will prove of interest to all of you, considerable in way of our days at QAHS and about the area. Would love to hear from any of you.

This story is to reach out with a hand of hope to the 2.3 million people suffering from Bi-Polar/Manic Depression and those close to them. It is an autobiographical account that takes the reader through the joys and sorrows of the authors life. For those dealing with depression or grieving from the loss of a loved one this book guides you through with honesty, courage and faith. Gerry Bradley found his way back from the highs and lows to the "light at the end of the tunnel". He now lives a rewarding and fulfilling life and you can too. Second Edition The story started as a simple journaling exercise to grievance therapy turned into a book length autobiography. The book spans the range of human emotion; at times it's a labor of love, by others, a labor of despair. Yet with honesty, courage, and grace the author has set the story to words. It is at once an accounting of the author's personal history as well, as an accounting of American history--the journey of an Oklahoma boy who found his way back home by examining his heart--it's a hero's journey.
